

The number of media outlets owned by one entity should be limited to try to assure a greater variety of views. Now we get only a very limited view of the world.